PLENARY SESSION

Closer to Home: Envisioning New Models for Family-Centered Care

Emma Rylander, Senior Paediatric Physician; Head, Department for Advanced Hospital Managed Home Care for Children, Karolinska Hospital, Stockholm, Sweden

Paul Dick, Assistant Professor, Department of Paediatrics, School of Graduate Studies and the Graduate Department of Health Administration, University of Toronto; Scientist, Population Health Sciences Division, Hospital for Sick Children; Adjunct Scientist, Institute for Clinical Evaluative Sciences (ICES)

Bonnie Stevens, SIGNY Hildur Eaton Chair in Paediatric Nursing Research, University of Toronto; Centre for Nursing, Hospital for Sick Children

Moderator

Stacey Daub, Manager, Child and Family Services, Toronto Community Care Access Centre, Toronto, Ontario

This session will address the significant changes in health care delivery and multidimensional aspects of home care for children. The leaders of this plenary session will highlight the emergence of new collaborative models and the needs, challenges and strategies for delivering improved family and home centred care. The models presented will reflect the diversity of care for infants to youth with acute, chronic and/or psychosocial challenges. Attention will be given to organizational changes, collaboration, and the role of communication and information technologies in facilitating these new approaches.

CAPHC ANNUAL LUNCHEON & KEY NOTE ADDRESS

The Importance and Impact of Political Involvement

John Godfrey, MP, Don Valley West; Chair, National Children's Agenda Caucus Committee, Confederation Building, House of Commons, Ottawa, Ontario

In his keynote address, Mr. Godfrey will address the political side of the current national health care debate and the importance and impact of political involvement in developing a national system of community based early childhood strategies. Within this key note address, our speaker will focus on the universally agreed upon components of early childhood development from conception to 6 years of age, the attachment theory, universal screening, community affects, public health issues and the overall quality of health care. This session will provide a unique opportunity for CAPHC conference delegates to discuss the importance of a national focus for advancing knowledge to improve health outcomes that insure that all children will have the opportunity to succeed.

AFTERNOON SESSION

1:30–3:00PM Scott Room

CONCURRENT SYMPOSIUM THEME: CARE OF CHILDREN AND YOUTH IN THE HOME AND COMMUNITY

Session Title: Care of Children and Youth in the Home and Community: Concepts, Evidence and Challenges

Peter Rosenbaum, Developmental Paediatrician, Canada Research Chair in Childhood Disability; Professor of Paediatrics, McMaster University and University of Toronto; Co-Director, CanChild Centre for Childhood Disability Research

Mary Law, Professor, Faculty of Health Sciences, School of Rehabilitation Science and Department of Clinical Epidemiology and Biostatistics, McMaster University; Co-Director, CanChild Centre for Childhood Disability Research

Nancy Young, Assistant Professor, Department of Paediatrics and Graduate Department of Rehabilitation Science, University of Toronto; Scientist, Community Health Systems Resource Group, Hospital for Sick Children

Moderator

Nancy LeFebvre, Vice President, Knowledge & Practice, Saint Elizabeth Health Care, Markham, Ontario

In this concurrent symposium the leaders will address the evolution of practice, theoretical models of care, and evaluation of care for children, youth and their families in the home and community. This session will emphasize the principles and practices of Family-Centered Service, the family within the community, and the community within professional systems. The importance of focusing on functional adaptation and performance (rather than solely on capacity) of children and youth with disabilities will be highlighted, as well as the considerable role of the individual's environment. This session will be evidence based. Delegates will have an opportunity to consider ways of making a difference by considering the needs of the child, the family, the community, the environment and the tasks of childhood in new ways.

1:30–3:00PM Carlyle Room

CONCURRENT SYMPOSIUM THEME: MAXIMIZING OUR RESOURCES AND ABILITY TO COLLABORATE NATIONWIDE

Session Title: Data, Information and Knowledge: A Model for National Electronic Collaboration

Andrew Szende, Chief Executive Officer, electronic Child Health Network (eCHN), Toronto, Ontario

Jeanette Martin, Coordinator, Canadian Paediatric Decision Support Network, Children's Hospital of Eastern Ontario

Moderator

Ronald Lindstrom, Research Associate, Centre for Community Child Health Research, B.C. Research Institute for Children's & Women's Health, Vancouver, British Columbia

This session will provide insight and an overview of the mission and vision of both eCHN (electronic Child Health Network) and the Canadian Paediatric Decision Support Network (CPDSN). The goals of this symposium will be to identify and discuss potential opportunities for the development of a national electronic database model aimed at improving health service delivery and fostering the continuum of care for children, youth and their families. The challenges of ethical issues, privacy and confidentiality will be addressed within this interactive session.

PLENARY SESSION

Theme: Realities and Opportunities in our Health Care System
Child and Youth Health Research in the 21st Century

Alan Bernstein, President, Canadian Institute of Health Research (CIHR)

John Challis, Scientific Director, CIHR Institute of Human Development, Child, and Youth Health

In this plenary session Dr. Bernstein will present the vision and mission of the Canadian Institutes of Health Research (CIHR) and provide an in-depth progress report of CIHR's achievements and milestones since the launch of the CIHR on June 7th, 2000. Dr. Bernstein will also address the importance and potential impact of CIHR's Innovation Agenda. Dr. Challis will address the overall goals and strategic direction of the CIHR Institute of Human Development, Child and Youth Health (IHDCYH) and provide an opportunity for CAPHC conference delegates to learn about some of the ongoing inter-institute partnerships and opportunities specific to CIHR's environmental, aboriginal and rural health initiatives. Emphasis will also be placed on IHDCYH's research priorities and the ongoing national consultative process and criteria that were implemented in determining these priorities. This session will provide delegates with a unique opportunity to actively participate in the ongoing consultation process and to discuss the opportunities for new regional and national initiatives in key areas of child and youth health research.

CONCURRENT SYMPOSIUM THEME: MAXIMIZING OUR RESOURCES AND ABILITY TO COLLABORATE NATIONWIDE

Session Title: If you have to eat an elephant, it doesn't matter where you take the first bite: Evaluating networks

Suzanne Barclay, Manager, Office for Cross-Cultural Care and Diversity, Children's and Women's Health Centre of B.C.

Fanny Zegarra, Manager, Multiculturalism Programming, Children's Hospital of Eastern Ontario

Shehnaz Alidina, Executive Director, Child Health Network for the Greater Toronto Area

Janice Popp, Project Manager, Southern Alberta Child and Youth Health

Dennise Albrecht, Director, External Development, Children's Hospital of Eastern Ontario

Hector Tenorio Rodriguez, Vice-President of La Sociedad de Pediatría de Oaxaca, Oaxaca, Mexico

Blanca Delia Palacios, Pediatric Intensivist, Hospital de la Niñez Oaxaqueña Oaxaca, Mexico

Carlos Garcia Rosado, Pediatrician, Centro Médico de Cozumel, Cozumel, Quintana Roo, Mexico

Moderator

Marilyn Booth, Director, Child Health Systems, Hospital for Sick Children, Toronto, Ontario

The co-leaders of this symposium will present lessons learned around the development of networks and their evaluation. Qualitative and quantitative approaches around process, outcomes and standards will be anchored in explicit examples of network performance. Cultural competence in paediatric health care will also be addressed and co-leaders will provide two case studies outlining the following:

- The steps that have been taken by a national consortium of paediatric hospitals and health centres towards the development of National Cultural Competence Standards for Pediatric Health Care;
- Lessons learned in collaborating across institutions on policy agenda setting at the national level;
- The future possibilities and opportunities for resource sharing and cooperative resource implementation that have arisen from the preliminary work.

LUNCH AND NETWORKING

AFTERNOON SESSION

1:00–2:30PM Scott Room

CONCURRENT SYMPOSIUM THEME: CARE OF CHILDREN AND YOUTH IN THE HOME AND COMMUNITY

Session Title: Responding to local needs and realities: Adaptive care models in home palliative and intensive ambulatory care

Geoffrey Dougherty, Director, Ambulatory Care Services, Montreal Children's Hospital, Department of Paediatrics, McGill University

Stephen Liben, Lighthouse Program, Montreal Children's Hospital, Department of Paediatrics, McGill University

PROGRAM

Moderator

Janet Harris, Chief Executive Officer, Durham Access to Care, Whitby, Ontario

This session will introduce participants to several innovative and challenging health service delivery models addressing both acute and chronic care needs. The Co-leaders will present current health care models for children, youth and families within the ambulatory health centre setting, the home and the community. Examples of “process of analysis”, of the individual or family’s needs to determine an optimal care design will be featured. Delegates will be encouraged to consider the underlying principals of health service delivery in the most appropriate setting and will be challenged to consider alternatives to the more traditional health service delivery based on empercal data. Both proven models and new opportunities will be addressed.

Parents who care for a child with complex medical needs face many stresses and demands including those that involve 24hr a day, 7 day a week care of their child. For these parents respite, the planned opportunity to have others care briefly for their child, is often non-existent. Within this session, the speakers will address the definition of respite care; what respite care means for families that care for a child with a complex chronic illness; its essential features and what families have to say about the care network they and their children are in. Delegates will be encouraged to consider these issues through the results of a study that looked in depth at these questions. The presentation of this study will bring forth to the delegates the voices of parents and their children and the challenges healthcare professionals face regarding yet unmet needs.

1:00–2:30PM Carlyle Room

CONCURRENT SYMPOSIUM THEME: MAXIMIZING OUR RESOURCES AND ABILITY TO COLLABORATE NATIONWIDESession Title: Road Map for Reducing Child and Youth Health Injury: A Recipe for Success!

Paul Boase, Chief, Road Users, Road Safety Programs, Transport Canada

Amy Zierler, Information Specialist, Safe Kids Canada

Margaret Herbert, Manager, Injury Section, Health Surveillance & Epidemiology Division, Health Canada

Alison Macpherson, Research Fellow, Paediatric Outcomes Research Team, Hospital for Sick Children

Moderator

Michael Moffatt, Professor and Head, Department of Paediatrics and Child Health, University of Manitoba; Medical Director, Winnipeg Regional Health Authority, Child Health Program

Few will argue that as the primary cause of death for Canadians under the age of 19, injury is a major health issue for children and youth. However, while the health sector manages the aftermath of these incidents, the effective prevention of injury is by necessity transdisciplinary, requiring the collaboration and cooperation of multiple sectors, including among others, health, transportation, justice and non-government organizations. Taking transportation related injuries as an illustrative focus, the symposium leaders will provide an overview of the magnitude of the issue, as well as provide an outline of current prevention and research initiatives and challenges. Participants will be encouraged to discuss opportunities to strengthen collaboration and partnership development opportunities between multiple sectors at regional, provincial and national levels. Emphasis will also be given to the important leadership role of the Health Centre, within community, regional and tertiary health care settings.

CONCURRENT SYMPOSIUM THEME: TRANSITION FOR CHILDREN AND YOUTH WITH CHRONIC DISEASE

Session Title: Transition for Children & Youth with Chronic Disease: It's up to all of us

Mary Paone, Clinical Nurse Specialist Youth Health/Transition Planning, Children's and Women's Health Centre of BC; Faculty of Nursing, University of British Columbia

Marcia Frank, Clinical Nurse Specialist, Hospital for Sick Children, Centre for Nursing, University of Toronto

Moderator

Linda Young, Program General Manager, Regional Paediatric & Perinatal Services, Rouge Valley Health System Toronto, Ontario

Early identification of diseases and treatments have meant that a large population of children growing up with health conditions are living well into their adult years. As health care professionals, we need to support the development of these youth and create treatment strategies that add to the quality of their lives while supporting their health into adulthood. Transition, developmentally-appropriate and continuous care into adulthood, can be seen as an effective means to support their health. A number of strategies and models are available and being used in centres across Canada. It is timely to share these strategies amongst pediatric and community agencies and look for opportunities to collaborate in areas of furthering this work and researching outcomes.

3:00–4:30PM Carlyle Room

CONCURRENT SYMPOSIUM THEME: REALITIES AND OPPORTUNITIES IN OUR HEALTH CARE SYSTEM

Session Title: An Integrated Approach to Service Delivery and Research: Realism with Rigor

Aubrey Tingle, President & CEO, Michael Smith Foundation for Health Research, Vancouver

Hume Martin, Executive Director, Alberta Children's Hospital, Calgary

Moderator

Sheila Jarvis, President & CEO, Bloorview MacMillan Children's Centre, Toronto, Ontario

In this highly interactive session the symposium leaders will acquaint participants to new and highly innovative organizational frameworks and partnerships linking research to health service delivery. While addressing the realities of current funding scarcities, the session will highlight and recognize the realities and opportunities around new technology and the benefits of new skill sets within health care settings. The symposium leaders will discuss the emergence and clear impact of networks and/or targeted areas of health care focus and will encourage participants to share similar regional and national initiatives.

CPS & CAPHC JOINT WORKSHOP

Evidence-Based Practice Workshop: A CAPHC presentation in partnership with the Canadian Paediatric Society

This workshop will bring together multidisciplinary practitioners from across the continuum of care to examine the process of standard(s) development and its application to child and youth health practice. Workshop leaders and delegates will discuss and put forth recommendations for key health care issues in which the application of consistent national standards would make a significant difference to the health care of children and youth. These recommendations will be included as part of the deliberation of CAPHC in identifying and implementing priority initiatives for the coming year.
